

MINING COMPANIES REAP BIG PROFITS

GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATOR REPORTS CALUMET-HECLA FIRM GETS "EXTREMELY LARGE" RETURNS.

PLAN FOR MEDIATION

As Outlined by Department of Labor Meets Approval of Miners But Is Rejected by Mine Owners.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 10.—Profits of the Calumet-Hecla Company, which employs more than 50 per cent of the miners in the Michigan copper district, were characterized by the general average of day wages paid by all the companies throughout the year was $2.59. Some of the smaller companies, he declared, were operating at a loss. Prior to the present strike he found the general work day was of ten to eleven hours and some of the miners were paid as low as $2.35 a shift. Some other classes of labor were paid as low as $2.

Made Exhaustive Probe. A summary of the investigation made public today at the department of labor details the work of Palmer, and also that of John B. Denmore, solicitor for the department, and Special Agent John A. Moffitt, who were later sent as mediators. Their investigation covered twenty-six phases of the strike situation, beginning with the causes, wages, hours of labor, and including the Western Federation of Miners, violence, the militia, armed guards, injunction against picketing and ending with the earnings of the company.

Secretary Wilson today declined to say what the next step in the department's participation in the situation would be, although he intimated that the report of the investigators might become the basis of a proposed congressional investigation.

"In connection with the efforts of the department at mediation, the reports of John A. Moffitt and John B. Denmore, who acted as commissioners of conciliation at different times," the report says, show:

Efforts at Settlement. That suggestions were made that the managers of the companies meet the representatives of the miners with a view to effecting a mutual settlement.

That the whole question in dispute be submitted to arbitration.

That the question be submitted to arbitration and no member of the Western Federation of Miners be selected upon the basis of the strike.

That the companies agree to reinstate all of the workmen without discrimination, relative to their being members or non-members of a union.

That the companies post notices that they will employ all the strikers without discrimination relative to their being members or non-members of a union.

Each of these propositions as made was accepted by the representatives of the miners as a basis of settlement, but were rejected by the representatives of the companies on the ground that they would not deal with the Western Federation of Miners or have any of its members in their employ.

The companies on December 1 posted notices to the effect that thereafter the minimum wage rate would be $3 and the hours of labor per day eight and three-quarters.

Ferris Leaves. Houghton, Jan. 10.—With the departure yesterday of Gov. Ferris from the copper country, the chief interest in the strike of the northern Michigan copper miners today centered in the work of the special Houghton county assessor, resulting from the strike.

Intimations that the work of the grand jury will be attached on legal grounds were made at union headquarters today. The strikers insist that the presence in the grand jury room of Grant Fellows, attorney general of Michigan, had violated the laws of Michigan and that there is no Michigan law which would permit the county to employ George Nichols as special prosecutor under existing conditions.

Moyer's Defiance. Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, announced his intention of remaining in the district as long as he pleased and of prosecuting the men who forcibly arrested him from Hancock on the night after Christmas.

Gov. Ferris returned to his home in Big Rapids without making a direct effort to end the strike. He blamed outsiders for the continuance of the struggle and said he got the information he came here for.

Ferris Interested. Big Rapids, Mich., Jan. 10.—Gov. Ferris at his home here today showed great interest in the report of the upper peninsula strike district.

PHYSICIAN SUGGESTS EUGENIC REGISTER

Medical Men At Battle Creek Hope To Establish Thoroughbred Registry of Eugenic Children.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 10.—A eugenic registry department for the development of a race of human thoroughbreds was one of the suggestions of Dr. J. H. Kellogg of Battle Creek speaking today at the national conference for the race betterment. It only takes four generations to make a thoroughbred when the principles of eugenics have a fair chance to operate," said Dr. Kellogg. "We have registers for horses, cattle, sheep, pigs and even cats and dogs. If a lady wishes to establish the standing of her pet, could she not do so by appealing to an official record and the puny canine may lift its head above its fellows as a born aristocrat. But no where on earth as far as I know is there to be a registry for human thoroughbreds."

The hope is entertained by the members of this conference that one of the results of the meeting may be the establishment of such a registry. Indeed it seems the time has fully come when a eugenic registry of office should be established in which may be recorded the names of infants, their parents, and perhaps also the names of persons who in person and pedigree, are able to be measured up to eugenic standards."

Dr. Kellogg prefaced his plea for a eugenic registry with a resume of the deteriorating influence now actively at work—such as increasing insanity, increasing crime, high infant mortality, and decreased life expectancy. He emphasized the importance of pure blood rather than blue blood. Some of his recommendations for race betterment are greater activity of health officials; health education in the public schools; biological surveys; every examination; health certificates before marriage; sterilization of defectives; and "most important of all the establishment of eugenic registers."

KILLS YOUNG WOMAN THEN SHOTS SELF

JOHN C. SPOONER OF MADISON MURDERS EMILY MCCONNELL, KINDERGARTEN TEACHER.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 10.—To the fact that John Spooner had been on a series of excesses and was in a liquor-crazed condition, is attributed the slaying of Miss Emily McConnell, kindergarten teacher, whose school room yesterday afternoon. Spooner's death at St. Mary's hospital at 6 o'clock last night followed earlier announcements that he could not possibly survive the night.

CHILDREN SEE TRAGEDY

Nephew of Ex-Senator Spooner Shoots Down Friend of Family in Sight of Fifty Badly Frightened Youngsters.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The prominence of the parties added interest to the most tragic crime in the city's history for several years. Spooner was a nephew of former United States Senator John C. Spooner, who left Madison for New York upon his retirement from congress a few years ago. His father, Roger Spooner, was once prominent in state politics; eighteen years ago serving as chairman of the Dane county republican committee and later being appointed to a consular post in Europe. Miss McConnell's father, Robert J. McConnell, now dead, was state oil inspector under Governor Peck. Since his death Miss McConnell has supported her mother by teaching in the kindergarten of the Sixth ward school.

Nine minutes after the tragedy Mrs. McConnell, the mother, together with Mrs. R. M. Bashford, widow of a former justice of the Wisconsin supreme court, drove to the school building to call for Miss McConnell. She was informed that Miss McConnell had met with an accident and would be detained. Mrs. McConnell was persuaded to return home, still unacquainted with the real situation and was not informed of it until night. She is prostrated from the shock.

Both Spooner and Miss McConnell were about 35 years of age. Spooner was married and his wife and two children survive him. The parties to the tragedy were childhood playmates and fifteen years ago, before Spooner married, they were fast friends. Both families have been intimate.

Spooner, who was an insurance agent, had been in a semi-intoxicated condition for three days. Shortly before 9 o'clock yesterday he was seen drinking in the Hofbrau Cafe at King and Webster streets, and upon leaving told the bartender:

"This is the last you will see of me."

He boarded a street car and went directly to the school building at Junior and South Broadway streets. Not unlike a casual visitor he crossed the school grounds and opened the school door. "Go to this," he stepped ahead of Mrs. Walter Drew, wife of the deputy attorney general, who came to call for her child. Spooner stopped to chat a moment with Emily McConnell, a school friend, who was directed to Miss McConnell's room on the first floor.

Without any conversation he sent two 38-caliber bullets from an Iver Johnson revolver through her head. Before the frightened eyes of the little children she reeled and fell dead in the hallway.

Spooner then shot himself under the throat and the bullet lodging in front of the left eye after passing through the frontal portion of the brain.

The school janitor notified neighbors and police were immediately informed. Spooner was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where he lingered three hours.

Spooner was formerly in the insurance business in Chicago, but returned to Madison a few years ago and opened an agency. It is said he recently suffered financial reverses and took to drink.

USE WORK BENCHES IN RURAL SCHOOLS

Recommends Such Equipment in Graded Schools Which Expect State Aid for Industrial Work.

State Graded School Inspector, W. T. Anderson has informed O. D. Antisdel that graded schools desiring special state aid for industrial work should do well to have a good work bench and carpenter's tools. He suggests getting catalogs from Orr and Lockett, Chicago, and Columbia School Supply Co., Indianapolis for such supplies; and getting good tools from local firms. "Elementary Woodwork" is suggested as a good book to have. This can be secured from the Eau Claire Book and Stationery Co., Eau Claire, Wis. Some graded schools in Rock county have secured a local carpenter to help the boys. They have made bulletin boards, corn racks, tables, chests and other furniture. Milk testing and corn judging are taken as class work. Girls are being taught to cut out and make some garments and a little work in cooking is taken up in a few places. Basket weaving, and some other lines of work, are also taught. Students are much interested in these practical lines of work, according to the reports of rural teachers.

MANY CANDIDATES IN GUBERNATORIAL RACE

BOTH DEMOCRAT AND REPUBLICAN ASPIRANTS PLAN VIGOROUS CAMPAIGNS.

PARTY LEADERS AT SEA

Can Not Bring About a Compromise—Means Much to Select Right Man at This Stage of the Game.

N. B. This is one of a series of letters on Wisconsin politics written exclusively for the Gazette.

While there is considerable worry in both the republican and democratic camps as to who will be candidates for senator, it is but a drop in the bucket to the problem as to who will be candidate for governor and other state offices. This is going to be one of the questions to be settled so as to avoid future complications. Course at this season of the year there are lots of available timber looked over, inspected and marked for future reference and gradually the "culls" are thinned out and only the real good building material is left.

Even while the legislature was in session, and by the way, that was not so many months ago at that, Merin Hull, speaker of the house, was talking of most seriously. Merin is a republican and a fighter. He did not like the way in which millions of dollars were appropriated to the state university for this thing or that, and he was not at all fair to the public and a fighter. He did not like the way in which millions of dollars were appropriated to the state university for this thing or that, and he was not at all fair to the public and a fighter.

Hull, however, stirred up lots of sentiment against making too many appropriations, and now that the result of his talk is seen in the tax receipts, the unusual increase in the state tax, why there are a lot of people who feel he was on the track. Last winter, however, Hull fought a useless fight. He might just as well have set his plow against a wind mill as the La Follette machine that ground out the laws as they were ordered to from Washington, as to have opposed the increase in taxation. By the way, this last legislature was a wonderful creation, anyway, when you stop to consider it.

They really accomplished very little, except to increase the cost of the state government materially and have a lot of fun for themselves. They proposed to move the state fair from Milwaukee and sent a committee touring around the country to make the people of the state believe they meant it. They visited Janesville, and told, and had a fine dinner, a pleasant automobile ride and it is whispered, informed their hosts that Janesville would certainly be considered. They did the same at Fond du Lac and Green Bay, and last, but not least, made many trips to Milwaukee. That settled it. They had the time and the tax payers to the freight as they always do. Good patient poor.

But to get back to that governorship. Hull wants it and is about ready to announce his candidacy here is the trouble. La Follette wants a personal friend of his to have it. Mr. Crownhart of Superior. Crownhart has always been a faithful party sort of a chap. He has carried water on both shoulders for La Follette and McGovern. Four years ago this fall there was needed a candidate for the attorney generalship to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the LaFollette candidate for the attorney generalship to oppose Levi Bancroft, the nominee. Well, Crownhart was Johnny on the spot. He took the job, the state central committee backed him and he made the race, but Bancroft won. As a reward he was given a nice fat job in Madison and now he is trotted out as the La Follette candidate for governor.

Now here is where the rub comes. William Henry Hutton, as a faithful Man Friday in the La Follette machine wants to be governor also. He has announced himself and he means to stick by it. Now William Henry is an insistent gentleman. He has stood around and taken orders for years and been a real good boy in La Follette's Sunday school class and thinks it is time he was promoted. There is one thing about William Henry that you must admit—his sticktoitiveness. Notice that word? When he wants something, he wants it, and he will not be side-tracked, so here is trouble for the "boss." Four years ago he was a member of the Morris for governor, and McGovern, then of Milwaukee, wanted the job himself. He insisted he had to have it and McGovern took the bait and became lieutenant governor.

However, this time it is different. Crownhart may have to step down and take second place on the ticket, or fight it out with William Henry in the polls. Hutton will stick to the end, it is certain, unless some pressure, that is not known of just now, is brought to bear on him to step down and be a good boy again. Of course Mr. Crownhart is not talking very much just now. He does not have to, he is waiting. It will be interesting to see who McGovern is going to back in the race. If he is to have a state machine he should have the state government, and doubtless he will have his candidate, who will be the faithful worker while Francis seeks after the toga of Uncle Ike.

Nor is there any more harmony in the democratic ranks. John Aylward of Madison, does not want Ike Karel, for fear he will run the whole length of the democratic back and make a touchdown, as he used to years ago, when playing against Minnesota as a university student. He knows Karel and his crowd and they do not sit in the same new John does, although of the same denomination. John wants Billy Wolfe of La Crosse. Wolfe is just John's style. He knew him years ago when he was a young man to the university. He knew him during the long, lean and hungry years of republican victories and he knows John. It is a sort of mutual admiration society.

Aylward and his crowd did not want Karel nominated in 1912. They had their man all picked out, but the voters thought different and Karel was nominated. When the state convention was called after the primaries, Karel and his followers went to Madison to attend. They met their headquarters at the Park hotel. The anti-Karel men all reported to Aylward at his offices in the Pioneer block and were given their badge and number and told to go out and look over the situation. The various congressional district conventions were held and John found that the Karel men were controlling them and the state central committee and he waxed wroth. Then he sent his lieutenant, Mr. Conway of Grand Rapids, to the Karel headquarters and asked him to come to his (Aylward's) office for a conference. Karel would not have gone anyway, but it took former Mayor Frank Walsh to express the real sentiment of the Karel men for Aylward when he said:

"You go back to Mr. Aylward and Mr. Davies, Mr. Conway and tell them that it is just as far from Mr. Aylward's office to Mr. Karel's room in the Park Hotel, as it is from Mr. Karel's room to Mr. Aylward's office. Conway went. Whether he delivered the message or not I do not know, but I know the other because I heard it. I was in Madison watching the republican battle royal and listened while Walsh issued his ultimatum. Well, it was true, but just the same it cost Karel his election for he lost out by a narrow margin, while Wilson carried over the Karel vote and lost state chairmanship. Paul Hemmy, who is now the subject of so much talk in the 'Joe and I' letter, and also his state central committee, but he did not win the governorship."

Now Karel thinks he is the logical candidate again and he means to run. This same Mr. Conway of Grand Rapids has been speaking, but he does not like him and the rank and file do not know him. State Senator Paul Justling of Marquette, also an aspirant for the senatorship, is talking of a coalition with Karel, but Hutton is weak timber when it comes to state matters, owing to his bickering with the republican machine during his term as state senator. Hutton has a collar's worth of government and not another new commission to investigate what the money is to be spent for. This is going to be some campaign year, believe me, and the issues will be interesting to watch. Karel had the repeal of the income tax two years ago, but he will have to have something different this year if he runs.

It is interesting to watch these scrambles between the candidates on both sides of the political fence. Back of it all is the vote of the people; the great American ballot and their demand that for every dollar paid down in taxes they receive a dollar's worth of government and not another new commission to investigate what the money is to be spent for. This is going to be some campaign year, believe me, and the issues will be interesting to watch. Karel had the repeal of the income tax two years ago, but he will have to have something different this year if he runs.

APOLLO CLUB HOLDS CONCERT ON MONDAY

Joel Mossberg, Noted Baritone, to Appear Here in Special Program.

Joel Mossberg, baritone, will appear under the auspices of the Apollo Club Monday evening has attained the enviable distinction of being the foremost Scandinavian baritone in the central west. He has been chosen to head the United Chorus of Scandinavians Club, which will appear at the World's Fair in San Francisco, and has received honors from all Scandinavian Festivals, but does not rest his claims to distinction solely to the glory of his country upon him by his fellow countrymen.

He has appeared frequently in opera in Chicago and has had numerous engagements with German societies and with the representative musical clubs throughout the central west. He has attained his chief distinction as a soloist who does big things, such as appearances with orchestras and in large auditoriums. He has had numerous appearances in the Auditorium in Chicago every year and has been engaged for conventions and other events given at the Coliseum in Chicago where no other artist would be considered. He has one of the most powerful baritone voices of any artist now appearing in the central west and yet has a finish to his work, which enables him to sing the folk songs of Sweden and the average song of the concert program.

JOEL MOSSBERG.

Mr. Mossberg will be assisted by Isaac Levine, the Russian pianist and composer, who has given most of his appearances at social functions in Chicago every year and has been engaged for an early Chicago recital, the first he has given in two years, and on the occasion of his Janesville appearance will present some of the numbers, which will be given at his Chicago recital. Although he is known for his delicate interpretations of Chopin, yet at least half of his admirers prefer the Glere and dramatic Russian compositions of which he is the master. He frequently gives some of his own compositions, which seem to combine the beauty of Chopin with the dramatic power of the composer's Russian interpretation. Mr. Levine's technical endowment is ample for his interpretation of the greatest masterpieces, and there is a certain finish to his technique that gives him recognition as a poetic player whether the numbers called for are Russian, classic or modern.

The Turkish Bath

The mild winter has brought the usual large amount of sickness. Physicians are busier now than they have been for a long time. People who are now spending hundreds of dollars to get rid of some disease, might have avoided it altogether by the timely use of the Turkish and Electric Light Bath. It is the old story all over again, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." It is better to build up health, vigor, and vitality and ward off disease than to fight for your life when it once has you in its grasp. Come in and see me now—delay is costly.

Sport Snap Shots

The rumormongers of the Federal league have managed to stir up brings to mind some of the incidents occasioned by the old baseball war when the American league was first organized. In those dear old days players were jumping right and left and ball fans were in a continual state of perturbation. Every morning they would awake to find that a prominent star had jumped to the new league or perhaps had jumped back again. Jimmy Sheppard was one of the most prominent jumpers then. In fact, he jumped around more than any other player of the day, and being wonderful outfielder and a demon of a hitter he was much in demand. But he seemed to like to jump. One day the fans would see a place in the paper about a great player from Brooklyn in the National league and then he thought he would stay with the Nationals. The next day it would be announced that he had signed with the Brooklyn American league team. Between the two teams he alternated continually. It goes on actual record that he jumped back and forth eight separate and distinct times before he finally decided to stick with one or the other, we forget which. At that time it was a popular diversion among fans to make bets as to where Sheppard would be playing three days hence.

If you live in England, reader, your accounts of ball games, if they had any there, would be served up to you on the sport page in the purest English and with fine literary flavor. Here is a report of a Harvard-Yale game as appearing in an English journal:

"At the crises in the fortunes of the game, the spectators take a collective and important part. The athletic committee appoints a cheer leader for the occasion. Every five

AGGRESSIVE HIGHS WIN FAST CONTEST OVER ALUMNI FIVE

Aspirants for Another Wisconsin Sheepskin Trim Rivals, Using Ten Men—Score is 45 to 19.

Using ten men and playing in wonderful form, the high school aggregation of basketball tossers trimmed their opponents, the Alumni, last evening at the local institution gymnasium by the one-sided score of 45 to 19, and started another glorious season on the basketball floor.

Coach Curtis started the game, using four veterans and Rac and for the first ten minutes the game realized that they were outclassed. It must be mentioned, however, that the Alumni quintet played a wonderful game considering their lack of practice and wind. Every one of them played star games, with Koch and Falter shining a little above the others.

Hemming starred for the highs with nine baskets. The floor work of the entire five was superb. Atwood fell down, though, the close guarding of French. Both men were fast on floor work.

Hemming and Falter missed free throws to start the game with. Koch began the scoring with a ringer shortly followed by Hemming, Koch scored twice more, and then the old guard scoring ceased. It was only a matter of score for the remainder of the half. The final score was 45 to 19, by a nineteen to seven count.

In the second half Stickney replaced Rau. Stickney proved a steady player. Later in the half Jones went to center. Badger took Rau's place at guard. Dearborn replaced Atwood and Barnes took Dalton's place. With all of this new material in the game, and a practically new team, the scoring then did not stop until the final whistle blew. The final score was 45 to 19. Following is the lineup and score: J. H. S.—Atwood, Dearborn, I. F. Dalton, Barnes, R. I. Capt. Hemming, Jones, C.; Rau, Badger, I. G. Stewart, Stickney, R. E. Alumni—Koch, I. F. Kuhlrow, R. F. Capt. Falter, C. Brown, I. G. French, R. G.

Baskets—Hemming 9, Stickney 3, Stewart 3, Dalton 2, Koch 4, Falter 2, Atwood, Kuhlrow. Free throws—Hemming 6 out of 12 attempts; Falter 3 out of 3 trials; Stickney 1 out of 3 trials; Brown 1 out of 2 trials; Koch 1 out of 3 trials. Time of halves, 20 minutes. Referee, George Sennett, Janesville. Attendance, 600.

Flashlights. The playing of the orchestra at the game was enjoyed by the entire crowd. Popular airs were played and responded to by the crowd. Referee Sennett officiated a fine game. He was very particular on calling fouls, twenty-eight being the number.

Good loud yells from the bleacher rovers were heard for blocks. The school five played better last night than they did a year ago in the Alumni game. At least that is the opinion of many. It sounds encouraging. Stewart played spectacular through-or ten minutes this gentleman a big, fine figure in white, springs out from his seat at the front of the stands, addresses the multitude through a megaphone with a One! Two! Three! burst it aside, and with a wild flinging and swinging of his body and arms, conducts ten thousand voices in the Harvard yell. That over, the game proceeds, and the cheer leader sits quietly waiting for the next moment of port or triumph. I shall not easily forget that figure, bright in the sunshine, conducting with his whole body, passionate, possessed by a demon, bounding in the frenzy of his inspiration from side to side, contorted, rhythmic, ecstatic. It seemed so wonderfully American, in its combination of entire wildness and entire regulation, with the whole just a trifle fantastic, that this student of Harvard when the dusty plain was filled with groups and lines of men dancing in solemn harmony, and a shouting crowd broken by occasional individual who could find some little eminence to lead a Harvard yell from, and who conducted the bystanders, and then vanished, and the crowd swirled on again.

Jess Willard's manager, doesn't think that Gumboat Smith is so much. Tell Thomas Edward Jones, that's the pet's name, that Gumboat is our best little while heavy scrapper and he will scuff with vengeance. G. B. can't fight or anything else according to Jones. Recently while at Los Angeles he explained in about 50 words that this stuff about Smith being a heavyweight fighter was folly. He is anxious to get another match with Smith for Willard, before the Gunner fights Johnson, because, says Jones, if Smith ever enters the same ring with the smoke there'll be nothing left of Gumboat for Willard to fight. However, since Smith managed to beat Willard rather decisively not long ago, it seems rather poor taste in Mr. Jones to carry on in this manner. Mr. Jones should realize that by his knocking he makes Willard to be unusually, particularly punk.

PARKER PEN TEAMS IN BOWLING MATCH

The office team from the Parker Pen Company were no match for the shop men, who were in practice in rolling the "lucky curves," the shop men outclassing their rivals by 255 pins, leaving the office team with a meager 137.

Coach Curtis started the game, using four veterans and Rac and for the first ten minutes the game realized that they were outclassed. Side Lights On The Circus Business

By D. W. WATT

(Copyrighted.) In the early days of show business, before traveling by rail was even dreamed of, one of the most important positions around the show was that of a good advance agent. One of the best men in those days in the business was a man by the name of R. S. Dingess, familiarly known among show people all over the country as "Bob" Dingess. Bob Dingess probably knew more about the country and the conditions from coast to coast than anyone in the business, at least up to that time.

Bob Dingess was one of the early advance agents for Adam Forepaugh and remained there until the time of his death, and although for some time before his death he was not an active worker with the show, yet it was always said that he was never taken off the payroll. Along in the early '80s when the Forepaugh show travelled by wagon all over the United States "Bob" Dingess, during the winter months, would travel hundreds of miles looking over conditions of the country and picking out what he thought would be the best for the coming season and when the show was ready to take the road in the spring "Bob" Dingess was satisfied that he knew the country, and the conditions where the show would be able to do the best business.

If part of the country had been eaten up by grasshoppers the year before, or there had been drought or anything of the kind, that would be conditions where the show would be able to do the best business.

Bob Dingess at times was cranky and not an easy man to get along with at all times. He was a heated discussor and he knew his business from A to Z. Many years later, in my time with the show, I have often sat in the ticket wagon and heard him and Adam Forepaugh in a heated discussion as to the country and conditions and as to where the show should go and I think nine times out of ten old Bob would win out and show Mr. Forepaugh where he was sure to be taken as to conditions which he had looked into thoroughly. For a man to remain the years that Bob Dingess did in the Adam Forepaugh show, made a high class man in the business.

Another high class man in the wagon show days was George K. Steele. Mr. Steele was not only good in his business but a high class gentleman. He was a man of the country over in Janesville will recollect Mr. Steele for he was an advance man for Burr Robbins for several years. Mr. Steele not only kept well posted on conditions of the country but he was a showman and he had mapped out for the coming year his course for the show during the winter, but anywhere George K. Steele did business with people they were always glad to have him come to the public that he did not make good.

Along about eighty Adam Forepaugh was attracted to the good work that Mr. Steele had been doing for Burr Robbins for years and he was called to Philadelphia and given the same position with the Forepaugh show that he had held several years with Burr Robbins. In those days the up-to-date advance agent meant more to a show than it does today for it was before the days of the telephone and telegraphic communications were far different from what they are today. For those days in many parts of the country you would simply have to take a train and go and find out for yourself the conditions, while today all such news is practically brought to your office to tell you something about a trio of brothers by the name of Webb who started in the show business in the early seventies and made it their life work. Adam Webb, the older brother and Jame the second, were with the Barum and the Adam Forepaugh shows for many years. Judd Webb was master of transportation for Adam Forepaugh all the years that I was with the show and was considered as high class as any man in the business, and by the way, these boys were nephews of the late James A. Webb of this city. When the older brother and Jame the second were with the Barum and the Adam Forepaugh shows for many years in the corner of what was known in those days as the old Larkin Building.

Jim Webb, the second brother, was boss canvassman and a very valuable man with the show, for he had spent many years of his early life as a sailor and knew all about making and repairing canvas and no difference in case of a blow down, Jim Webb and his assistants could always repair it and put it in shape as good as new.

Not more than ten or twelve years ago the Ringling show was showing at Spring Brook and the day before last the show, for he had spent many years of his early life as a sailor and knew all about making and repairing canvas and no difference in case of a blow down, Jim Webb and his assistants could always repair it and put it in shape as good as new.

known clowns, in the country. In those days the clown had to be good dresser and considered a good singer. As he was the princely clown with the Burr Robbins Show in seventy-eight, which was my first year in the business, he made a good impression on me and a few of his little jokes I have never forgotten. Along about the middle of the performance Pete would come out and mount the platform and sing one of his songs and when he had finished he would say, "Ladies and Gentlemen, this song with many others you will find in the old clown's song book and the gentlemanly agents will pass among you offering them, for sale at the very low price of ten cents. These song books are sold for the benefit of an old hen and a small brood of chickens and I am the rooster."

Whether Pete had any other jokes to tell other than this I am not certain, but this one he told every afternoon and night. Possibly it took better with the crowd than any of the rest, while Pete Conklin is still living, he has been out of the business for some years and must be hanging around the seventy-five mark.

Another man, especially with the big shows that were always in demand was a good side show talker and announcer. A man that with a good voice could talk all day long and make a good opening in front of the side show and also could announce the concert with voice enough so that it could be heard in the mammoth tent, that kind of a man was always in demand, and at a good salary, his pay always running anywhere from $50 to $100 a week.

Thirty years ago two of the best men in the business were Frank Morris of New York and Dan Green of St. Louis. Dan Green died at his home in St. Louis many years ago. Frank Morris, I think, is still living, but out of the business. These men had fine appearances and could talk from morning till night and this made them valuable in the business.

RETURN OF "WITHIN THE LAW"

"Within the Law," unanimously pronounced one of the greatest theatrical successes in years, plays a return engagement at the Myers Theatre, Tuesday, January 13th, presenting the same excellent company that appeared here earlier in the season.

It is one of those rare plays that is so brilliantly conceived and written that its performance is actually better than anything its advance notices could say of it. "Within the Law" scored a great hit here earlier in the season.

This play, written by Baynard Veiller, a former New York newspaper reporter, has for its principal theme an exposition of the police methods and economic conditions that exist in the great metropolis. It is a gripping play of absorbing interest and has scored an unquestionable popular hit.

Lovers of good plays and fine acting welcome the announcement of the American Play company of their return engagement here.

About twenty guests attended a surprise party in honor of Edith Byrne at the home of her parents on Cherry street last evening. The occasion was her sixteenth birthday, and many games were played during the evening. After a most delightful supper the young people departed for their homes.

ARMOUR IS BEATEN BY FAST BELOITERS

State Line Quintet Score Easy Victory Over Chicago Squad, 27 to 9. —Game Was Interesting.

Beloit College basketball five easily defeated Armour at Beloit last evening, 27 to 9. The state liners were not forced to exert themselves to pick a win from the Chicago bunch, who were inexperienced at the game. Edler played guard, on account of the illness of Wilford, and Turner, a regular forward, took Edler's place at center. This shift allowed Korst to play the full game. Ryan secured two baskets, while Korst and Edler each contributed one. The lineup and score follows:

Beloit—Ward, I. F.; Korst, R. F.; Turner, C.; Edler, I. G.; Ryan, R. E. Armour—Clark, I. F.; Varven, R. F.; Lamb, C.; Hillgate, I. G.; Katzinger, R. G.

Baskets—Beloit: Ward, Korst, Edler, Turner, 3, Ryan 2. Chicago: Clark, Armour, Varven, Hillgate, Katzinger. Substitutes—Beloit: Cornell, C. Referee—Gardiner.

WEATHER FORECAST.
Cloudy tonight and Sunday.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Once, so runs the legend, there lived in far Judean hills two affectionate brothers, tilling a common farm together. One had a wife and a household of children; the other was a lonely man. One night in the harvest time the older brother said to his wife: "My brother is a lonely man. I will go out and move some of the sheaves from my side of the field over on his, so that when he sees them in the morning his heart will be cheered by the abundance." And he did.

That same night the other brother said to his workmen: "My brother has a household and many mouths to fill. I am alone, and do not need all this wealth. I will go and move some of my sheaves over on his field, so that he shall rejoice in the morning when he sees how great is his store." And he did. And they did it that night and the next, in the sheltering dark. But on the third night the moon came out as they met face to face, each with his arms filled with sheaves. On that spot, says the legend, was built the Temple of Jerusalem, for it was esteemed that there earth came nearest heaven.

This old legend beautifully portrays the golden rule in action. The deeds of kindness, prompted by brotherly love, were performed under the cover of darkness, and the men could not be accused of ostentation or ulterior motives. The spot where they met in the moonlight was dedicated as holy ground, and the temple of Jerusalem became a monument to perpetuate the memory.

This legend dates back beyond the birth of the new dispensation, and suggests the thought that the spirit of the Master inspired the heart of humanity, long before His earthly kingdom was established.

Man's duty to man is an obligation which has found expression in every generation, since the birth of the race. Just what prompted these expressions was not intelligently recognized until the coming of the Master and the establishing of His kingdom in the human heart.

We are living today, in the bright light of the twentieth century, two thousand years this side the advent of that important event, and yet we have much to learn about the common brotherhood.

President Wilson said, shortly after his inauguration, that he was not so much concerned about the man who has arrived, as about the men who were in the fray, struggling with the upward climb. That he expressed honest belief is evidenced by the policy adopted.

By the "man who has arrived" he meant the class of men who have succeeded, and who represent today the big business of the country. These are the men who are receiving special attention at the hands of the Wilson administration.

The little brother, struggling with weakness and misfortune, is so much more in evidence, than the big brothers at the top, that he absorbs attention and sympathy to such an extent that in our efforts to relieve him, we often do the larger brother an injustice.

This is especially true when we enter the realm of power, where laws are made, and where every effort is made to protect the masses.

The question of justice is more important than the question of sympathy, but it does not appeal to us as readily because there is no sentiment connected with it.

We were led to believe that a reduction in the tariff would relieve the people of a burdensome tax, but the only result thus far apparent is the closing up of some American industries and embarrassing others to the point of bankruptcy.

The object lesson at home is the sugar factory and while the "man who has arrived" Captain Davidson pockets his loss through idleness and depreciation, the county and especially the men out of employment are also losers.

It is estimated that one hundred million dollars' worth of property has been put out of commission by the new sugar tariff and a good many thousand people put out of employment on the same account. If anybody is any better off, the fact has not yet been discovered.

Edward Enright, an old Janesville boy, now stationed at Porto Rico, in government employ, is home on a visit. The principal industry of the little island, which has a population of more than a million, and is only a little larger than Rock county, is sugar culture. Mr. Enright says that the tariff represented the profits, and that the industry, which gave so many people employment, is now practically dead.

While the Porto Ricans are not very closely related to us, they are little brothers, just the same, and in getting after the "men who have arrived," we have done them a grave injustice.

Senator La Follette is out with a scored, in the last issue of his magazine, which caps the climax. He urges the people to support the president in his efforts to regulate big business and claims that Wall street is doing all that it can to defeat his plans.

He asserts that the National Manufacturers association has laid two hundred thousand men, for political effect, during the past few weeks, and that the business world is doing all in its power to discredit the policy of the administration.

That's one of the craziest propositions that any intelligent mind ever entertained, and shows how little a great statesman knows about business, and the laws which govern trade, yet the senator is a fair specimen of the men who make our laws, and who just now are engaged in creating all the disturbance possible.

Mr. J. A. Craig said, the other night in a public address, that the fight now being made by the government on the United Steel company was most unjust, and uncalled for, and that if the men so eager to dissolve the corporation, would spend a week among its customers, that they would realize their mistake.

Then, he spoke about the splendid organization, which has no rival in this or any other country, about their one price system, putting all customers on the same basis, and about their consideration and help during the panic of 1907 when the banks were so short of currency.

This company is accused of conducting its business in restraint of trade, and yet the fact is well known that it has done more to open up the markets of the world than all other agencies combined.

Peanut politics is the curse of the nation today, and pinhead politicians are largely in the ascendancy in both state and national legislation.

The country was never so well equipped with business organization, as it is today, but organization, as Elbert Hubbard said the other day, is like a good team and wagon waiting for a load. Congress, through inquisition and regulation, is doing all it can to retard the load.

Public sentiment and public sympathy today, is with the masses, and the spokes of what we are carrying out all go one way. It is about time that the men who man the industries and furnish the work, receive some consideration.

The kingdom of brotherly love is an ideal kingdom, based on the broad foundation of love to all mankind and malice toward none. This includes the high and the low, the rich and the poor.

It is God's domain entrusted to human hearts and human hands. The responsibility no man can shirk for we are all stewards in this great realm and accountable for our stewardship.

When this responsibility is more generally recognized and appreciated justice and mercy will go hand in hand, and then will dawn the millennium.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

ABOUT TO ORGINIZE THREE NEW CLASSES

Two Gasoline and One Electricity Class Open on Thursday of Next Week—Wisconsin Man as Instructor.

On Thursday evening will convene three new classes at the night school. Two in gasoline engines and one in electricity.

The present class in electricity conducted by Prof. Arbutnot will finish the course of lessons on January 13, and a new class will be organized on Thursday night providing enough entrance to warrant starting the course again. This is an especially practical course and deals with the practical application of electricity to modern use. When one considers that electrical appliances are yet in their infancy and are destined to have an almost unlimited development, it is easy to see the wisdom of offering this new course to those desiring to become informed in this most important subject. This course appeals to others besides the regular electrical workers. It is treated in a manner helpful to any one desiring to know something regarding electricity.

The course in the practical study of gasoline engines which has been taught by Mr. Manning to a large class finishes its work on Tuesday evening. A new class in the same subject is already organized and will begin on Thursday evening. The character of the work which the students deal directly with the engines themselves makes it necessary to limit the number actually working with the engines, although others could receive the general preliminary instruction. A few more beginners might be accommodated in the class.

The advanced class in gas engines conducted under the direction of the extension department of the University of Wisconsin will also open on Thursday night. A year ago the university extension professor, Mr. Elliot conducted the largest, and it is believed the best class in the study of gasoline engines in the state. The interest in the gasoline engine in Janesville was a matter of general comment throughout the state. This year the industrial school board has secured the head man of the engineering department at Madison, Prof. Morris, who is a recognized authority in the west in this special field of science. His course will appeal to any automobile owner or worker in the garage business or any one else who has to do with the gas engine in any form. The school management predicts for Prof. Morris a large and enthusiastic following in the night school.

All of these courses are free to the people beyond sixteen years of age, upon the deposit of $2.00 which is refunded at the end of the course. The attendance has been 35 per cent good.

On the Spur of the Moment

The Twenty-Five Cent Shave. Barbers in metropolitan centers are now charging 25 cents for a shave. We live in the land of the free and the brave. Where they're charging just now twenty-five for a shave, but I'll tell you what. Till they reach to my waist, I'll tie them in a bow. Here I'll pay twenty-five to the barbers knave.

They can grow till they reach all the way to the ground. They can grow till they cover a good block around. And then I'll go. Get a job with a show. As the long whiskered man. Of the world, don't you know, And I'll hang to my twenty-five cents. I'll be bound.

Now if I do not shave, there'll be one consolation. I will miss a whole lot of soft-boiled conversation. The barbers go bang. I don't care a dang. I'll keep my alfalfa. And I'll let it hang. I'll pay no two bits. 'Tis fy emancipation.

Signs of the Times. If there could only be a financial panic in this country perhaps it would stave off the annual downpour of Christmas necessities. They say clothing is cheaper than ever. Well, a good deal of it certainly looks cheaper than ever, and even cheaper than that.

"What on earth do you want of another one? Didn't I buy you a good one late last season?" "Yes, you did," returned my wife, "but you see I haven't got the one any more. I didn't mean to tell you what become of it, but I suppose I may as well. During the hard times when things looked so bad and you were telling hard times every time I needed a new pair of stockings. I took that beautiful hat and cut it up in the meat chopper and served it to you with a little cream and sugar for breakfast food every morning. It lasted nearly a month. Wasn't that real economical of me, dear?" "Don't you be so blamed economical in the future. I'll attend to all the economy necessary around this bungalow," I exploded.

Stung again.

Take It As It Comes. It ain't no use. To heap abuse Upon the weather man; He's mortal, too. Little me and you. He does the best he can. Some folks believe He can achieve All sorts from A to izzard; That he can bring Any old thing. A fine day or a blizzard. But that ain't so. Oh, mercy no. That notion is insane. He cannot yank A little crank And make it snow or rain. Like all the rest. Even at his best. He's got to be content With humid heat Or stov or sleet Or whatever else is sent.

"LOVE'S SUNSET"

Synopsis

Vitagraph Production.

At the dance Milton Towne, the artist, shows plainly that he does not care for women. He eagerly grasps the opportunity to get away when his friend Harold Heath asks him to leave with him. Towne goes home to his rest, but Heath goes to a fashionable restaurant for supper and there sees and becomes fascinated with Nita Travers, a charming, cabaret dancer. So attracted is he by her that when, several days later, he begs her to leave her life of dancing for a life of ease with him, she consents to do so. But Heath is not steadfast in his affections and Nita's hour of misery arrives when he leaves her and goes away to Europe. She is forced to go out and earn a living. Falling lower and lower in the scale of life, she becomes a dancer at a cheap, vulgar, dance hall. Unable to stand her existence there any longer she goes away with a Salvation Army Rescue woman, through whom she manages to secure employment in a wealthy family as nurse maid for three dear little children. This family are friends of Milton Towne, the artist, and he calls there often. He becomes interested in Nita, the nurse maid, and eventually falls in love with her.

Nita realizes that she should tell Towne of her questionable past when he proposes to her, but she longs so much for his love that she dares not do so, and she becomes his wife without letting him know of it. Her marriage life is happy. She is beloved by her husband and is a good mother to her little boy, who, when two years old, is a bright, golden-haired youngster. Three years elapse when Heath returns from Europe. He learns of Towne's marriage and goes to see him. A revelation of Nita's past is affected when they come face to face in Towne's studio. Her husband, enraged at her falsehood, throws her out of the house, telling her never to return. She wanders away. She loses her mind. Days later she stabs back, and dies in the arms of her forgiving husband.

This feature life-portrayal is of the highest dramatic order. It shows the presence of the master hand in moving picture production. It is called "Love's Sunset" and will be the feature film presented at the Lyric and Majestic Theaters tomorrow.

MILWAUKEE CHOSEN FOR NEXT MEETING

STATE MASTER CARPENTERS' ASSOCIATION CLOSING SESSIONS TODAY.

ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Many matters of importance taken up at business session this morning. Interesting program today evening.

Milwaukee was chosen as the next convention city of the State Master Carpenters' Association at their business session at Eagles' Hall this afternoon. The business session this morning brought out many interesting points of view relative to building, relative to building, uniform in the state. A law similar to that now in force was discussed and it was possible that some such suggestion will be formulated at the next annual meeting to be presented to the next session of the legislature.

One of the delegates was that such laws would compel all workmen to pass an examination and would give the contractor the opportunity of employing capable men which would be a great benefit to employer and employee. The subject of the creation of a state-wide insurance system was also taken up and the local committee was named to look after these two questions. On the legislative committee—John H. Flindorf, Thomas Copps, Charles Fritz, Madison P. J. Van Pool, Janesville, and M. G. Winter, Milwaukee. Committee in charge of insurance—G. Peters, O. H. Uhlrich and H. C. Kelling, Milwaukee.

At the election of officers H. W. Walschlaeger, Milwaukee, president; P. J. Van Pool, Janesville, vice president; J. O. H. Uhlrich, Milwaukee, secretary; H. C. Zickert, Watertown, Wisconsin, treasurer; and three years, H. C. Kelling, Milwaukee. Resolutions thanking Mayor Fathers and the local builders' association for their kind and generous entertainment of the convention were adopted. The convention adjourned to meet in Milwaukee in 1915, the third week in January.

Last Evening's Program.

Eagles' Hall was well filled when the Master Carpenters and their friends convened Friday evening for the reception and entertainment of the visiting delegates by the members of the local association. The convention was formally opened Friday, but little real business had been done, the visiting delegates being the guests of the local builders' association. The Apollo theatre, at 10:30 p.m. and later forty-seven of them sat down to a sumptuous dinner at the Myers hotel at six-thirty.

It was shortly after seven-thirty when the State President, J. V. Frederickson of Madison called the members and their friends to order at Eagles' hall to enjoy the special program arranged for their enjoyment by the local members. Mayor Fathers and his wife made a neat address of welcome to the visiting delegates and members of the association talked of the great benefits that such an organization could bring to the state and on the state at large. He expressed great pleasure that Janesville had been chosen as the meeting place for the second state gathering and welcomed the delegates.

Then followed a delightful musical number by a selected male quartet, composed of Enoch Erickson, E. F. and P. J. Van Pool and F. K. Doane. It was well received and warmly applauded. State President J. V. Frederickson of Madison then made an able response to Mayor Fathers, welcoming address and expressed the pleasure of the members of the association in being in Janesville and the entertainment and welcome they were receiving. A piano duet with a violin obbligato, by Joseph Francis and Elizabeth Denning, made a charmingly given. The young people showing marked ability and much talent.

Then followed impromptu talks by members of the association. H. L. Madison, making a neat talk, interspersed with several amusing stories that were thoroughly enjoyed. P. E. Green also told of how glad Janesville was to entertain the visiting delegates. H. C. Kelling and W. H. Buscher of Milwaukee, told of their pleasure of being present as did H. Walschlaeger, first vice president, also of Milwaukee. Then followed a delightful piano solo by Miss Ruth Van Pool, which was most enjoyable. The address of O. H. Uhlrich, the state secretary of Milwaukee, followed a most interesting proposition to the association, proposed to accomplish and following his address the male quartet gave another selection. Mr. Uhlrich's address in part was as follows:

"Co-operation is the key note to success. Whether it takes the form of reciprocal friendship and fellowship between his employees or is practiced among employees in any branch of business, the results in the formation of an association, of such employees, and such associations of workers in various cities or whether employees unite and they come together and form one central unit, more through the development of business intelligence, business men are preferring co-operation to hostile competition. The old 'rush and hide method' is rapidly disappearing. The competitors, perhaps a business enemy, has become a co-worker and friend and the employee now looks upon a rival as a co-worker. By co-operation we mean the formation of what is commonly known as a 'trust.' These are dangerous factors to the business world which must receive their death knell, either by the law or through public sentiment. The present administration at Washington is confronted with an answer to this problem and a revision of the anti-trust law will be the first of the two great measures, the tariff and currency bills, which have been passed by the democrats. The revision of the Sherman law will protect and promote wider competition and limit its abuses. Small and 'big' business will be affected and the small contractor or employer is vitally interested in the amended bill. It is not wisely framed. The proposed law is anticipated, will draw closer around a small business to control large combinations or trusts and the small man is called upon to guard his personal interests affected by the growing conditions. He should assert their rights in a proper manner. This is by means of united co-operations. Concentrated in greater pressure and influence, proving the value of co-operation. The matter of the Sherman law is important and timely and is hailed with delight by labor unions in every branch of trade.

During the last session of the state legislature a large number of measures were introduced representing of misrepresentation, interests which seriously threatened. I might say the existence of nearly every employer who employs labor is in jeopardy. I might say that some of these laws are 'tricks' and by concerted action, the co-operation of delegations from the Builders' Exchange, Master Carpenters' Association, Merchants and Manufacturers of Milwaukee and also the association of Kenosha and other similar organizations, pressing arguments and careful thought was brought to bear upon the state legislature committees. This resulted in the withdrawal, modification and defeat of many of these bills. Without co-operation a large number of measures would have been impossible and the result would have been injurious to the cause of our trade.

The Wisconsin State Association of Master Carpenters is but in its infancy. It is a new organization, it has a healthy mother and it is enabled to get the right kind of nourishment from the various smaller cities of the state. It is in a position to do its avowed clothes. Nothing can be accomplished if the membership is not greatly augmented from every part of the state. The members of the association and every 'boss' carpenter in the state should be made to understand that it is to his interest to belong to this organization. The interests of employer and employee are alike, whether one employs a few men or a hundred. There are an unlimited number of hazards which employers and employees mutually or less degree at the most expected moment. The workmen's compensation law is an example. By carrying out the law, the employer and employee are alike. The value of co-operation.

You usually can interest a business man in any project, if you can prove to him that it touches his business interest, ordinarily speaking, means his pocketbook. With due respect to promoters and members, many arguments have come to life in recent years for the welfare of their employees and others, and I would classify the organization of mutual benefit societies as being of that branch. Let us 'get busy' and demonstrate to ourselves and others who will soon follow in our path, the value of co-operation.

In conclusion, Janesville has the right spirit for the work. The members of the Janesville Builders' Association, the Janesville Master Carpenters' Association and the Janesville Builders' Association of this city, in undertaking the organization of an exchange and the establishing of an exhibit, are demonstrating the spirit of progressiveness is bound to bear fruit, and I, for one, wish to congratulate and compliment our Janesville friends for their slogan, 'Youth Succeed in Janesville.' Appropriate.

The following are the delegates who were present:

Milwaukee: Henry Flachi, O. H. Uhlrich, John H. Flindorf, William H. Buscher, H. W. Walschlaeger, J. V. Frederickson, J. O. H. Uhlrich, Jacob Kelling, E. H. Stohlihusen, Richard Ferger, R. Ebert, Henry Yahn, H. C. Kelling, H. C. Winter and J. E. Buscher.

Watertown: W. H. Buscher, J. O. H. Uhlrich, P. Behke, John J. Smith of Waterloo.

Madison: Thomas P. Capps, Geo. J. Fessler, J. V. Frederickson, and Fred Butrecht and James Skelton.

RECORD BREAKING ENTRY LIST WILL MARK 1914 SHOW

The exhibit of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry Association, which opens on Monday next will mark a new era in exhibits in number of entries now seems certain. Secretary King predicts that it will be a record breaker in way of entries and already it looks as though the capacity of the hall will be taxed to its utmost. Let alone the caging equipment of the association.

The first arrivals will begin to be delivered Sunday morning and the show managers will have their hands full. Special attention will be given to the watchmen have been engaged and the various exhibits promise to be more interesting and varied than ever before. The interest in the Janesville show is widespread and some of the biggest chicken fanciers in the country will be here during the coming week to look over the birds and make purchases.

In a statement today Wm. McVicar declared that the poultry show to be conducted by the Southern Wisconsin Poultry Association next week will be one of the largest in the south. "Present indications," said Mr. McVicar, "lead us to believe that we will have over 1,500 entries, and we have just completed twenty new cages to accommodate the entries of the larger birds, such as geese, etc. These cages together with those already in our possession will run our total over 1,000. Birds will be entered from St. Paul to Indianapolis, but of course the majority of the birds will be entered from towns in this vicinity. Perhaps the largest exhibits will come from Whitewater, Port Kankakee, Delavan, Lake Geneva, Brodhead, Kenosha and Janesville. The larger breeders will accompany their entries to this city and remain here during the entire show. Those breeders who make entries and it is impossible to show many of their exhibits, can rest assured that their birds will be properly cared for by members of the association, as every precaution has been taken to protect the birds. The possibility of any damage being suffered by the birds. Each bird entered wears a metal band around the leg and these bands should be put on by the exhibitor. The members of the committees in charge will not be held responsible for any loss due to fire or other unforeseen misfortune. But every precaution will be taken, to properly police the auditorium."

Many local breeders and bird fanciers will have entered birds of high quality and it is possible that many of the prizes will be carried away by exhibitors of this city and vicinity.

She was born on a farm near Ogdensburg, N. Y., September 20, 1850. She came west with her family in 1860 and settled at Clinton, Wis. In May, 1871, she was married to George Lanphier, who preceded her in death December 4, 1913. In 1884 they moved to Whitewater, where they resided until her death this morning. She has long been a sufferer from rheumatism, and for ten years has lain on a cot, not being able for the most of that time to help herself in any way. For the last seven or eight weeks her illness has been more and more severe, until the end, which was quiet and sweet. Her life has been a sermon of patience and cheerfulness to the neighborhood and her influence has reached to many friends more distant.

The funeral will be held Monday morning at ten o'clock, with burial at Clinton. The family requests that no flowers be sent.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE SILVER LINING.

A YEAR or two ago a friend of mine passed through a terrible experience. For several weeks her adored husband lay constantly between life and death; night after night they barely existed, and could live until morning; it almost was a miracle that he finally came back to health and strength. The other day this woman and I were talking about trouble, and she said, "You remember when my husband was sick? Those six weeks were the most dreadful weeks I ever lived through. You see this lock of gray hair? It came to me then. I worried until I couldn't suffer any more. I would rather die than go through six more weeks like those. And yet, do you know, even if I could, I wouldn't erase that experience out of my life."

"You see, I never had any real trouble in my life before. Little things, as everybody does, but nothing real and big like that. And it seems as if it had opened my eyes and made me see the world in a different and bigger way. Books and plays mean more to me now because I can understand about the people who suffer like I do. I can understand about our own lives better but that it teaches us how to understand other folks' lives."

Experience is a great and wonderful teacher and not only in the sense that it teaches us about our own lives but in the sense that it teaches us how to understand other folks' lives. As we are looking placidly upon some narrow corner of the world we great Teacher-Surgeon—Experience—passes by, yields his scapel and leaves us blind with pain, but by any by the pain passes and when we look out on the world again, lo, we can see farther and wider than we could ever see before. Nor is this true merely of big experiences. Every new experience, big or little, widens our field of vision and broadens our sympathies. Not long ago I had my first experience of hospital existence. I didn't like it a bit while it lasted, but as I look back I wouldn't have missed it, for it gave me a new angle of vision on the subject of sickness and a fuller understanding of what it means to suffer and wait.

To welcome bitter experiences because of the wider sympathies they are sure to give, or to see in them anything but a trial while they last, is beyond human ability. But to fail to get that wider sympathy from experience, and even after the wound has healed to be still too bitter to value their blessings is surely to be "a stupid pupil in the school of life, well birched and none the wiser."

CELERY IN VARIOUS STYLES.

It has not been so many years since celery was considered a new vegetable, and everybody had to "learn" to like it, but now it is the unusual person indeed who does not like the delicious crisp flavored stalks.

The coarser outside stalks and leaves are used for soups, salads, saucers, stews and flavorings in meat dishes. When the celery is not in season, the celery seed and celery salt are used for flavoring a dish while it is plentiful the finer leaves should be dried and kept in a cool place. Scrape, if necessary, when ready to use and by wringing the cloth out of fresh water occasionally the celery will keep fresh and crisp for a week or ten days. The leaves may be used in place of lettuce as the basis of salads.

To Fringe Celery. Cut the stalks into pieces about two inches long. At the ends cut each end down three-fourths of an inch as many times as possible. Then cut these strips lengthwise again so they will be pliable enough to curl readily when thrown into the water containing a slice of lemon. Serve as a garnish for salads or stuff with cream cheese.

Stuffed Celery. Mix two parts of cream cheese and one part of Roquefort with sufficient mayonnaise to make a good smooth mixture. Add salt, paprika, chopped meats and green peppers and stuff into the blanched stalks of celery. Serve with a salad or sandwiches. These stalks may be fringed as suggested under "Fringed Celery."

Creamed Celery. Cut the prepared stalks of celery into inch pieces and put them into boiling salted water for about fifteen minutes. Drain, then cook slowly until tender. Do not boil too fast or the celery will be tough. Drain and save the water for soup and serve seasoned with a very thin cream sauce, thickened with flour or milk. The flavor and food value are much improved this way.

Materials—Celery strips, one cup; boiled chestnuts, one cup; apple strips, one cup; cream mayonnaise, lettuce or celery leaves. Directions: Shred and blanch the chestnuts, then boil about fifteen or twenty minutes until tender; drain, cool and cut into quarters. In the meantime cut the celery in strips an inch and a half long; also the apples and sprinkle with lemon juice to keep them white. Use equal parts of mayonnaise and whipped cream lightly mixed together, then add ingredients to this. Put on lettuce or celery leaves and garnish with strips of pimento and green peppers.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are girls of about eighteen years.

(1) Last summer while on my vacation I became acquainted with some dear little lady and they took my friends out, as I refused to go.

The oldest of the cook quite a liking to my sister, but when ever he called at our home he always treated me better than my sister. One day a bunch of us girls went to a picnic and there I met my sister's friend. He escorted me home and kept on making dates, never thinking of breaking my sister's heart. Doesn't care for him and he forgot her, do you think it is proper for me to go out with him, as he cares so much for me? My daddy also likes him and the rest of us like him. What should I do—cast him away or keep on making dates with him? He is quite rich and told me if I would keep on going with him he would marry me just as soon as my father allows me to be married.

(2) I correspond with a few boys in different states; is this wrong?

(3) How can I shampoo my hair good?

(4) How can I keep away from deceitful friends without hurting their feelings?

(5) How can an irritated bunion be cured?

(6) Suggest a good remedy for corns.

COLLEGE KIDS.

If your sister does not care for him and he seems in earnest in his attention to you, I do not see why you should not go about with him, especially as your father seems to approve.

There is no harm in writing letters if you keep them just FRIENDLY letters. Just as soon as you begin to be sentimental you begin to break trouble for yourself.

(3) Break two eggs into a bowl, beat them up well and rub well onto the scalp and into the hair. Let them dry into the hair. Put into a large pan of warm (not hot) water a tablespoonful of baking soda. Rinse your hair in this. The rinse again in clear water and repeat until the last rinsing water is perfectly clear. Brush the hair dry. Be sure the brush is clean.

(4) Simply keep away from them. Be courteous when you see them, be careful what you say to them, do not invite them to your home and do not visit them. They will soon lose interest in you.

(5) A bunion is something a doctor ought to treat.

(6) First of all, see that your shoes fit properly and do not rub or pinch. Tie a fresh piece of banana or lemon skin (white side against corn) to the corn each day. Soon the pain will be gone and the corn can be cut out.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls fifteen and eighteen years old.

(1) When we go for a drive with our boy friends is it proper to ride four in a buggy, as we always like to be together?

(2) Is it proper to call up a young man that you have never had an introduction to?

(3) Are tight skirts worn this year?

(4) Should our boy friends kiss us good night when they leave?

(5) Should we tell our parents every place we go and who we go with?

(6) If a boy that we are not engaged to should give us an expensive present, should we accept it or give it back?

(1) I should think it would be rather nice to be together.

(2) No, indeed, dear girls!

(3) Yes.

(4) Tell them you are not children any more and you must be more dignified. A girl should stop the kissing business when she is fifteen. If she wants to be remembered with respect by the boys when they grow up.

(5) It would be best, because your parents want to guard you against harm.

(6) Send it back with a kind little note saying that you cannot presume to accept anything expensive from a friend although you appreciate the kind thought that prompted him to give it.

CHRISTMAS CAKES.

The cakes and puddings which contain fruits and spices are best made some time before needed as the flavor is much better if they are allowed to season, well wrapped to keep from drying. The following one, however, is best made to be used within a day or two:

Queen Cakes.—Cream two-thirds of a cup of butter, add one and three-fourths cupfuls of flour, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda, a half teaspoonful of cream of tartar, then add one and one-half teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Beat the whites of six eggs, add one and a fourth cupfuls of powdered sugar and combine the mixtures. Bake in a shallow pan 50 minutes. Cover with caramel icing.

The President's Cake.—Most people will feel that this is too expensive a cake for ordinary occasions; but for the holiday time or the event of a wedding will warrant a little extravagance. The ingredients are a pound each of butter, sugar, browned flour sifted, 12 eggs, five pounds of seeded raisins, one and a half pounds of citrons shredded, one glass of grape jelly, two teaspoonfuls of melted chocolate, one pound of candied cherries, one pound of candied pineapple, one pound of blanched almonds cut fine, one pound of pecans cut fine, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one of nutmeg, half a tablespoonful of allspice, a teaspoonful of cloves, one glass of grape juice and two teaspoonfuls of rosewater.

Soak the almonds over night in the rosewater and the fruit in the grape juice for the same length of time. Cream the butter, add the sugar, then the well-beaten yolks of the eggs, then the spices, jelly and chocolate. Next add the beaten whites and part of the flour. Roll the fruit in the rest of the flour, adding it in small quantities and mixing it well. Add the nuts last. Bake or steam for four to six hours in small or large molds. It steamed dry off in the oven slowly for an hour.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

If meat and potatoes are formed into balls when warm they will not crumble in frying, but remain firm and perfect in shape.

Rainwater and soap will remove machine oil from washable fabrics. After baking pancakes, while the griddle is hot, try frying eggs on it, turning with the pancake turner. They will cook quickly on the outside, leaving the yolks soft and creamy.

If fish is wrapped well in oiled paper it will not impart a flavor or odor to the other foodstuffs in the refrigerator.

PIMPLES WOULD BURN AND ITCH

Over Body and Head. Sore Spots on Arm and Shoulders. Scratched Until They Bled. After Using Cuticura Soap and Ointment a Week, Eczema Left Her.

913 S. Hackley St., Muncie, Ind. — "When my little girl was a tiny babe she broke out in little fine pimples here and there over the body and head. They would be about the size of a quarter after they were broken out and would form a scab for a week or more. When the scabs would begin to peel off, the disease would itch and give her much trouble. As she grew older they would spread until some places would be as large as a half dollar. Her clothes seemed to make the sores burn and itch. The sore spots were on the top of her arms and two on her shoulders. She would scratch them until they would bleed. Sometimes in combing her hair it would come out. I used — for a while but it did not seem to be any good and I used it also without result. She continued to break out with the eczema until I wrote for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them. I purchased some more and the sores came off and I could comb them out of her hair and it healed up just finely. After using Cuticura Soap and Ointment a week the eczema left her. (Signed) Mrs. Laura Graves, Nov. 27, 1912.

For treating poor complexion, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have been the world's favorites for more than a generation. WISCONSIN TRAVELS TOWARD SINGLE TAX

MILWAUKEE CORRESPONDENT
ALSO NOTES TENDENCY TOWARD PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

PRIVATE RIGHTS GOING

Another Fifteen Years of Progressive Movement and Taxes Will Suffice to Establish Socialism in Full Sway.
(By Ellis B. Usher.)

Milwaukee, Jan. 10.—People who are traveling about the state on business say that they hear complaint of high taxes and extravagant public expenditures everywhere, and that the question of extravagant public expenditures is never so seriously discussed as at present. This is because it was never, in the history of the state, so serious a problem as now, but that is not the root of the difficulty. It lies deeper.

Wisconsin is moving rapidly and steadily toward the single tax on land; toward public ownership through purchase and confiscation of private property; and therefore toward the ultimate extinction of private rights in property of all kinds. This statement is not made to be sensational. I make it because I believe it is true and can be proved. A few suggestions of what the proofs are will suffice for this letter.

Record of Tax Levies.

Gov. La Follette, in 1901, in his first message, criticized his predecessors for an increase of state expenses of 50 per cent. in a decade. Gov. Scofield's last year of administration cost $3,999,234. Gov. La Follette served six years, the last year of his administration costing $5,550,873.79. Gov. Davidson's administration followed. His last year cost $6,434,097.06. This year, the fourth year under Gov. McFarland, with the state tax that was remitted last year for electioneering purposes, added to the appropriations made by the legislature, we are set for an expenditure of $2,000,000. In 1911, in his campaign efforts to convince the farmers that they would have no income tax to pay, Tax Commissioner Haugen proved too much. He asserted that farmers would pay little tax upon income. The fact is the farmers, relieved of both personal property and income taxes, are today virtually upon the single tax basis. The last report of the state tax commission recognized this fact. The report says that it can make very little difference to the farmer "whether his assessment is based on his real estate only, and also that in the northern and more sparsely settled portions of the state placing the tax upon the land would have the distinct advantage of discouraging speculative holdings." That is the Henry George theory complete, but in a nutshell. The next step will be the confiscation of the land by taxing the "unearned increment" and taking from the farmer the chief source of his reward that his occupation offers.

Step Toward Confiscation. Wisconsin has already taken the first step toward the confiscation of private business to the state. Just as the national government has taken a step towards the extinction of private property in the express business, without compensation, so is the principle of Wisconsin's state life insurance project and its transformation of normal schools into local colleges a menace to private business and private property. The tolerance of proposals for government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones suggests the viceregal perversion of all the provisions of the Anglo-Saxon as to rights of property.

I have here only space to suggest not to define the already widespread violation of socialist ideas of property in this commonwealth. But after fifteen years of "progressive" movement like the last, and our grandchildren, if not our children, Mr. Landowner, will be wards of a Socialist society, holding all its property in common, or anarchy will take the further and final step which invites "the man on horseback."

Must Defend Rights. This statement is not likely to alarm anybody. It is not intended to. I have been diligent in these letters for eight years with warnings that are being proved up for me every day, and the people of Wisconsin seem complacent and afraid to make a fight for their own interests. They do not fight, and that personally, not through hired men or behind the scenes and masked defenses of civic clubs and other organizations. They may expect the tendencies I have pointed out to grow and the dangers to sound government to increase. Do not deny organization and co-operative action, but it must be effective, come from the biggest, strongest men in every community. It must be sincere, and it must, above all, be out in the open, and absolutely above board. We of Wisconsin are not threatened with revolution. We are now in the midst of one that threatens every dollar of property, and the life, liberty and happiness of every man, woman and child in the state.

The Worthy Immigrants. We are told a good deal in these days of the menace of our meddler, rampant immigration. It would be a good idea for any person who shares the anxiety of the alarmists to do a little first hand investigating. I can remember tales that Charles Michel of La Crosse used to tell of the manner in which he and other German masons were mobbed in Philadelphia in the 40's. Almost every community in the state has German and Irish survivors who can remember the indignities they suffered from the "Know-nothings," an anti-foreign political society, now of unsavory memory. But we are in danger of a relapse into of mindless everybody else's business that sticks out in our legislation nowadays is an invitation to bigotry, race prejudice and all the other petty prejudices. If you want an object lesson, go to one of the Greek shoe stores, stands, now common in all our communities, and while your shoes are being blackened talk to the young fellows who does it about the achievements of Greece in the Balkan war.

I did that recently. The whole aspect of the young fellow changed; his eyes were bright, his cheeks reddened, and by the time his job was done he took me proudly to a map he had on the wall, showed the great region of Greece, boundaries and with especial pride pointed to Macedonia and told me in broken English that it was back in Greece after all these centuries of absence. He knew every diplomatic point that had been under discussion as well as the history of battles. Eighty such young fellows went back from Milwaukee to fight Turkey, and fifty-five were killed. Don't think because they are doing these latest comers that they are unworthy because they are doing our humble work.

The Erie in Wisconsin.

The Erie railroad laid up on its construction work last year with less than sixty miles of the double track unfinished. The vacant spots in the grade are being rushed to completion in short order in the spring. Among the further terminal facilities on the Chicago river will be another powerful tug that is building at the Detroit Dock and Ship Company plant, and a set of covered lighters are also to be added to the equipment for the rapid handling of bulk freight. The Wisconsin business of the Erie for December showed an increase over a year ago, which in these dull times for freight shows the results of hard work and strength with the shippers. My gossip about the Erie is after business and this is the only way of keeping the fact before the public.

Financial Conditions. As I mentioned previously for some of my statements during last year to the effect that business was not generally good and that money was dear the world around, I invite attention to the coming year, which says that "1913 was a year of quiet and disappointment alike in foreign and domestic finance, trade and industry. The disquiet was world-wide, and until the latter part of this year not so much in evidence at home as abroad. Disappointment was keen with those who with knowledge of the many politico-economic domestic problems for solution, were hopeful that the exceptionally strong position of this country's production and consuming interests would render us partially independent of the outside world. The collapse of the large financial forces dominating the world in the year just closed and making for depression in finance and trade." Bradstreet suggests the probability of easier conditions this year and some people are optimistic. But I still adhere to the injunction: "Don't get gay!"

Short Notes. The express companies will pay Wisconsin $3,000,000 this year, instead of $1,740,638, as they did last. That means that the government competition in the parcels post confiscated nearly half the value of express property in this state. The express companies may deserve to do penance, but the plan may prove a two-edged sword. Why stop with express companies? Why should not the government have the same business?

Mr. Aylward, of the local political firm, has artlessly admitted the perils of Bryanism in Wisconsin politics, and Mr. Bryan's two closest friends, Mr. G. W. Wall and J. J. Fleming, went into the state with the two Milwaukee appointments. They will both enjoy "The New Freedom."

Cure Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath—Candy Cathartic.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep.

A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

Classified Want Ad?

"I have looked this blame town over for a hired man, and I can't find one. Don't tell me that men are wanting work, I'm from Missouri!" said one farmer to another at the Farmer's Rest the other forenoon.

"Ah, you're not from Missouri! You're green," said the man addressed. "What you want to do when you are in need of help nowadays is to advertise—run your appeal in the want ad page. You'll get your hired man all right. Trouble will be as to who to pick from the applicants. I've relied on the want ad page for years to supply me with men, and have yet to be disappointed," said the farmer who was listening to his neighbor's complaint.

"If they can't fit you out, they can me; here goes for a call at the Office," said the first speaker, with a relieved look upon his face.

I Have Bred Black Langshans For 19 Years

I am a Langshan specialist—know how to mate for best results. No better breed for farmers if the birds are given their freedom. They hold the world's record for winter laying. Always popular in the show room. When it comes to a show record I do not know a breeder who has equaled mine. Last year I won the Business Men's Trophy Cup at the Madison Show in competition with American, Mediterranean, Asiatic, French and Polish birds. Stock and eggs for sale cheap.
